

ABSTRACT

The disclosed offshore oil transportation system includes an unmoored, dynamically positionable FSO located at a predetermined distance with respect to an offshore production platform or with respect to a point on the earth's surface. The FSO
5 receives crude oil from offshore platforms and then offloads the crude oil into shuttle tankers which move the crude oil to onshore refineries or storage facilities.